

Quality, Safety and Environment Policy

Maltexco S.A. is a leading company in the production of malted barley and products derived from cereals, which meet the demands of the brewing industry and food industry. The Integrated Management System is based on Quality, Safety and Environment principles, and it acknowledges that the proposed objectives are consistent with the general principles of the organization. These objectives may only be achieved with the commitment of all the members of Maltexco.

By proper examination of new opportunities, along with the development and improvement of our own operations, we strive to continuously improve our processes, as well as environmental performance and the quality and safety of our products. Maltexco is committed to fulfill legal, regulatory and customers' requirements.

Maltexco is committed to keep sustainable actions for our operations, in which both the well-being of our workers and the surrounding communities, complement the development of our own industry. For this reason we understand that our present and future must consider an efficient and responsible use of natural resources, and the commitment to care for the environment, including pollution prevention. All of these are accomplished through the deep knowledge of all the characteristics of our operation, so as to study and apply actions that help us reach such efficiency and reduce impact on the environment, including the prevention of pollution, losses and waste of products. These actions also involve our barley growers, so through mutual collaboration and through encouraging best practices we may work toward a more sustainable agriculture.

We provide the required resources, which include training and education for our employees, external and internal communication strategies allowing rapid reactions if any change appears that may affect our environmental performance, and the quality and safety characteristics of our products.

This policy is known and applied in every level of our organization and it is available for all relevant stakeholders, providing the basis on which our integrated management system is organized.

Álvaro Cruzat O.
General Manager